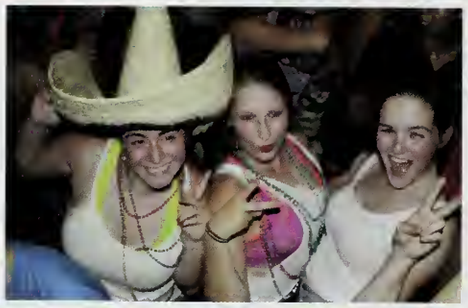
YEAR IN REVIEW

ALS Ice Bucket Challenge

This year, Uni had its first ever ALS Ice Bucket challenge fund-raiser where the students dumped buckets of ice water on teachers to help raise money for ALS research. Uni raised $400 for the cause thanks to Uni's awesome faculty.

Car Wash Cuties



Howdy Hop Y'all

This year's annual Howdy Hop dance was by far the rowdiest of them all. Students busted a move to new pop hits, showing off their fresh summer frocks and enthusiasm to start the school year off right!

The Great Pumpkin

The Junior Class hosted Uni's first "Great Pumpkin Party" as a class fund-raiser for prom. The event was filled with fun fall festivities, from apple bobbing to pumpkin painting, everyone was falling for fall!

Stuffed

Spirit Week

After showing off their school pride all week, spirit week led up to an assembly at Kenny Gym. The classes competed to determine which class rules the school with spirit. Once again, the Senior class "won" and flooded the floor in celebration.

Ball is Life

Coaches vs. Cancer

The Uni community came together to support the basketball teams and a great cause. After a nail-bitingly close game, Uni boys lost to Judah 75-68. However, at the end of the night, everyone was a winner because they raised $1,000 towards cancer research .

FOOD IS KING

Students take advantage of their freedom at Uni to go to popular food vendors, such as Cravings, Antonio's, McDonald's, and Cracked.

In the halls during lunch and even Uni Period, students are constantly on the prowl for sustenance. They roam around campus searching for scrumptious restaurants. Conveniently enough, these food locations are all within walking distance, ranging from less than a minute to just under eight minutes.

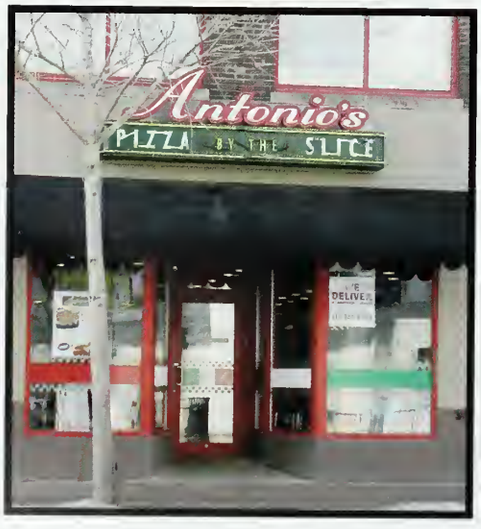
The most popular food attraction at Uni is Cracked because of its taste and convenience. The egg sandwiches topped with a variety of meats and vegetables are a perfect lunch to energize a student for the rest of the day.

Students looking for a Chinese meal go to Cravings, located just five minutes from Uni. Running late, students can go to McDonald's for fast food services. If one is in the mood for pizza, Antonio's on Green street serves delicious pies made from scratch.

Cravings

Location: Wright Street
Time Walking: 5 minutes
Price: $1.55-$9.95
Type: Chinese
What's Hot: Orange Chicken, Sesame Chicken

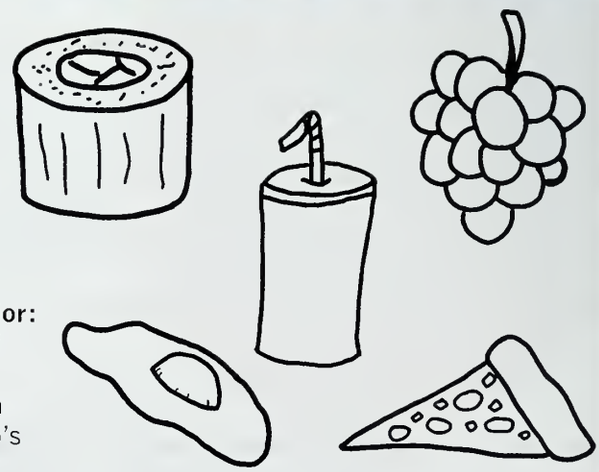
Michael Anukwu, Junior: "It's actually a good restaurant. I usually get sesame chicken or chicken with broccoli. It's also convenient because the food is served fast and is pretty cheap."



Antonio's

Location: Green Street
Time Walking: 7 minutes
Price: $2.50-$6.50
Type: New York sliced pizza
What's Hot: Beef taco pizza, BBQ chicken ranch pizza

Pranav Pamidighantam, Junior: "The food is good in terms of variety and taste. The price is much better than the pizza truck next to Uni and Antonio's has good deals really often."



SALES @ UNI

Throughout the year, many clubs, sports teams, or StudCo members head food sales. Some of these include the annual Diwali lunch, swim team pasta sales, and pizza sales every Tuesday and Thursday.

CRACKED

Location: Springfield & Mathews
Time Walking: >1 minute
Price: $2.50-$6.50
Type: egg-centric wraps and sandwiches
What's Hot: White Cheddar Bacon Tots, Sloppy José

Jacob Rajlich, Junior: "The Cracked truck has a very friendly staff; they are young and can associate with us. The food is very good as well, and easy to get since it's so close to Uni. I usually get large tots and a Mountain Dew."

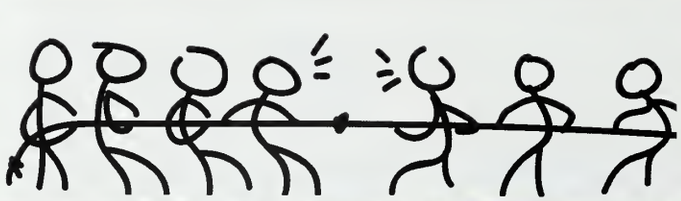
Alice Trellakis, Senior: "Cracked is pretty quick, reliable, and conveniently located next to Uni. So on cold days, I just go there. Most importantly, the tots are to die for."

McDonald's

Location: Green Street
Time Walking: 6 minutes
Price: $.89-$5.29
Type: fast food
What's Hot: Big Mac, Chicken McNuggets

Tommy Song, Senior: "I used to go to McDonald's almost every day, but since it's track season now, I don't go that often. The food is cheap and good, but I feel sick inside after eating it."

Chloe Pollock-Muskin, Freshmen: "When I go to McDonald's, I usually buy large fries and some chicken nuggets. I'm lovin' it!"



Outdoors in October

A cool retreat for the Class of 2019

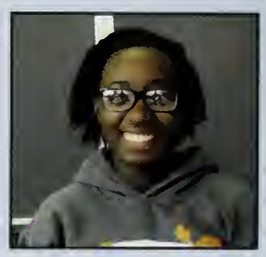
On October 1, 2014, Subbies and Subbie Buddies got down and dirty at the Allerton Park 4-H Memorial Camp! In an effort to avoid the torturous heat of last year, Subbie Buddies and administrators planned this year's retreat on a cool October day. Although initially cold, everyone warmed up to the weather and their new peers.

After the half hour bus ride, Subbies and Subbie Buddies anxiously awaited the activities planned for the day. The Subbie class was divided into two groups based on their preassigned groups, named after continents. Teams Asia, Africa, and half of Australia started the morning with the Low Ropes Course and tried to ignore the pesky forest bugs as they participated in the various team building activities. The remaining groups South America, Europe, and the other half of Australia began the day with bonding games such as 'Who's At The Table' and 'Cultural Scavenger Hunt.' They ended their session with the Tallest Tower challenge, where they were encouraged to use teamwork to build a structure as tall as possible to support the weight of a marshmallow. While there were winners and losers, the subbies finished the day as a united class.

After the groups switched and completed all of the activities, everyone rejoined for refreshing drinks and a casual lunch of Pizza Hut. Subbie Buddies and counselors had some time to relax while the Subbies played basketball, frisbee, soccer, and drama games. Following the break, Subbies and leaders gathered for large group games of "Honey if you love me?", "Drip, Drip, Drop", and "Capture the Flag." To conclude the day's fun, Subbies and Buddies competed in a giant tug-of-war tournament. While everyone fought hard for the championship title, it was Team Africa for the win, thus ending the Subbie Retreat.

Brooke Hyden
Counselor

"The Low Ropes Course was my favorite part of the whole retreat. I learned a lot from our guide about leadership and teamwork and I think as a person new to Uni, it helped me interact with students on a more casual level and get to know them."



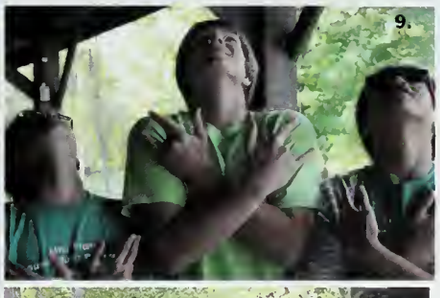
Raebekkah Pratt-Clarke
Senior
Subbie Buddy

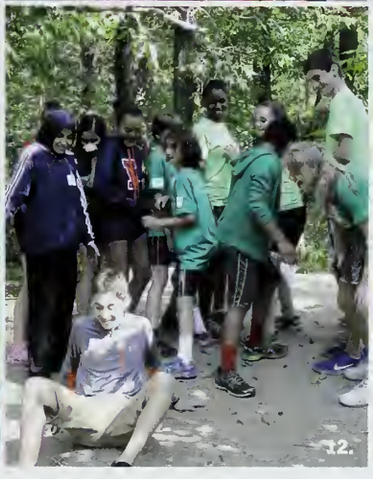
"I'm really pleased with how it went. I feel like a lot of people opened up with the games we played like the Cultural Scavenger Hunt and Who's at the Table, which was good."

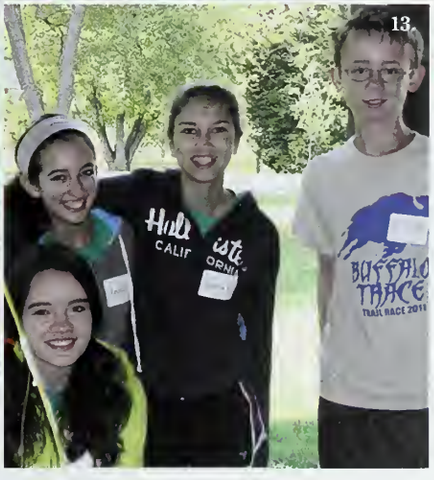
Solomia Dzhaman
Subbie

"Overall, I loved the retreat! My favorite part was the Low Ropes Course because we bonded as a group while we did them. I also liked Drip, Drip, Drop because it gave an awesome cool off from the hot weather."

1. Subbie Sarah Grubisich offers a hand to Subbie Buddy Matt as Team Europe completes the Low Ropes course activity. 2. Subbie Buddies huddle together for an endearing group photo. 3. Africa group members work together to bring Grace Sumitro through the Spider Web course. 4. Continental group Asia concentrates on finishing the Low Ropes Course. 5. Catalin Clougherty, Emma Loewenstein, Jessica Valete, and Alex Swanson-Linville relaxing between activities.







SHAKE IT OFF

Uni students study hard and party even harder, making school dances the perfect place to hang out with friends.

Howdy Hop

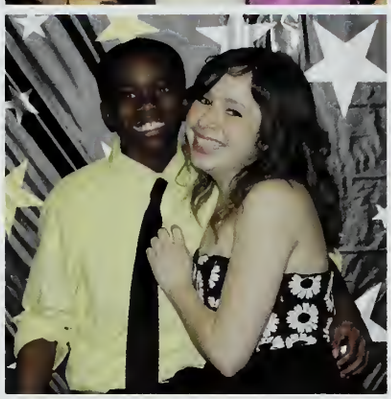
Uni students celebrated the end of the first week of school with the annual free dance held on the first floor. Though it was extremely hot and sweaty as usual, everyone had a great time. Seniors showed their class pride by dressing in white T-shirts and bright, neon colors while most students were in athletic wear.

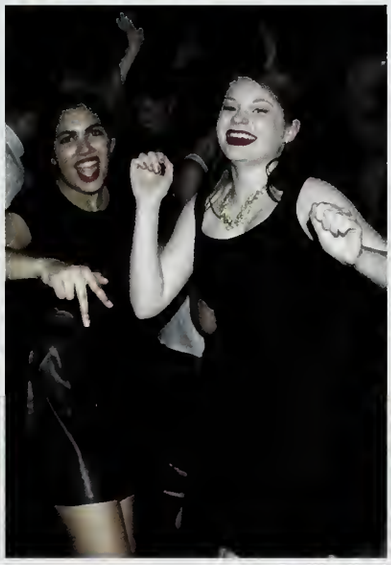
Fall Ball

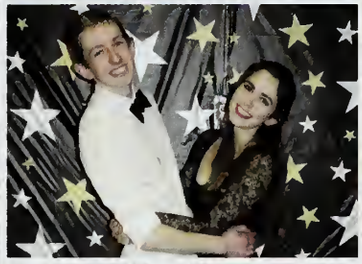
Uni's first semi-formal dance of the year was held in Uni Gym on October 18th from 8-11pm, DJ-ed by Camden Coleman and sophomore Madie Gardner! StudCo organized a fun lead up to the dance this year, designating the Wednesday before as Spirit Day, Thursday as Character or "Cosplay" Day, and Friday as PJ Day. By Saturday, Uni students were more than ready to blow off some steam and dance the night away. There was a good turnout of students in the hot and sweaty Uni Gym, and everyone had a ball!

Winter Formal

Organized by the Sophomore class, Winter Formal was held in the Urbana Civic Center on the 24th of January. Though it was held a little later in the month than in previous years, the dance was worth the wait. Students enjoyed dancing to music provided by senior Vikram Bagchi and junior Jack Zeiders, as well as taking silly pictures in the photo booth.







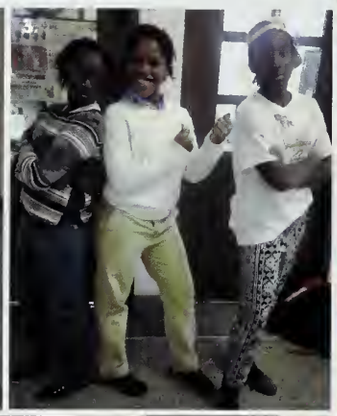
Spooktacular Day

Halloween at Uni High is scary, punny, and funny all in one.

The end of October means hallways full of costumes. The main theme for this Halloween seemed to be group ensembles. Lined up for the costume contest in Uni Gym were a variety of characters, including the cast from Alice in Wonderland, Sandy and Danny from the musical Grease, Stuart Little from the movie, and Will, Carlton, and Jazzy from the legendary Fresh Prince of Bel-Air. Students filled the stands in the gym to cheer on their favorite costumes, while members of the student council showered them with candies such as starbursts, twix and snickers.

Highlights from the group of winners include senior Eric Kong as Mrs. Doubtfire, senior Andrew Nguyen as a sexy construction worker, and junior Katie Tender as the "fifty shades of gray." After the top costumes were announced, the Halloween spirit remained in the air, displayed by a variety of decorations in the library, window sills, and student lockers.

Giddy-up!



1. Sophomores Callie Bruce and Caroline Gillette strike a pose as Disney's Lilo and Stich. 2. Senior Darren Liu gives a thumbs up to Uni's Halloween costume contest while Sofia Carrillo is feeling a little "under the weather." 3. Sophomores Madie Gardner and Aja Trask, along with Senior Raebekkah Pratt-Clarke look pretty "fresh" in their costumes. 4. Freshmen Hadley Shapland, Kathryn Dullerud, Yichen Yao, and Lara Morgan embrace the Upper East Side as the cast from Gossip Girl. 5. Sophomores Daniel Meling, Alexandre Geubelle, and Martin Grosman smile for the camera as the three stooges. 6. Sophomores Tori Aber, Zina Dolan, and Kyra Althaus examine their Burn Book as the cast from the movie Mean Girls. 7. Junior Neil Tewksbury dresses up as Isaak Haberman, while Isaak Haberman dresses up as Jacob Rajlich, and Jacob Rajlich goes as a referee.

DECK THE HALLS

Uni gets into the annual holiday groove after a long week of finals by enjoying a feast and some spirited music.

In accordance with years of Uni High tradition, Mr. Murphy's Madrigals walked the dark halls at the end of the last period of first semester finals. They led the tired and hungry students and staff over to Uni Gym to celebrate the holidays at the Winter "Surprise" Party.

Once the whole school was stuffed inside the decorated gymnasium, Madrigals performed yet another stellar arrangement of Renaissance-era group songs and solos to liven up the atmosphere. Uni then made a move into the 21st century as Mr. Butler gave his annual dramatic, blood-curdling reading of "The Gingerbread Man." It was supplemented with the use of a projector so everyone could see the awe-inspiring pictures illustrating the classic story.

After Doc Walk thanked everyone for coming, a jazz band consisting of talented sophomore James Vaughn, juniors Kavi Naidu, John Walkington, Noah Larson, and Mr. Murphy played fresh tunes for all to enjoy. Students eagerly raided the bountiful tables of delicious entrees, appetizers, and desserts prepared by Uni High parents. To the soulful crooning of the band, students and staff enjoyed their lunches and celebrated the end of finals week and the beginning of winter break.

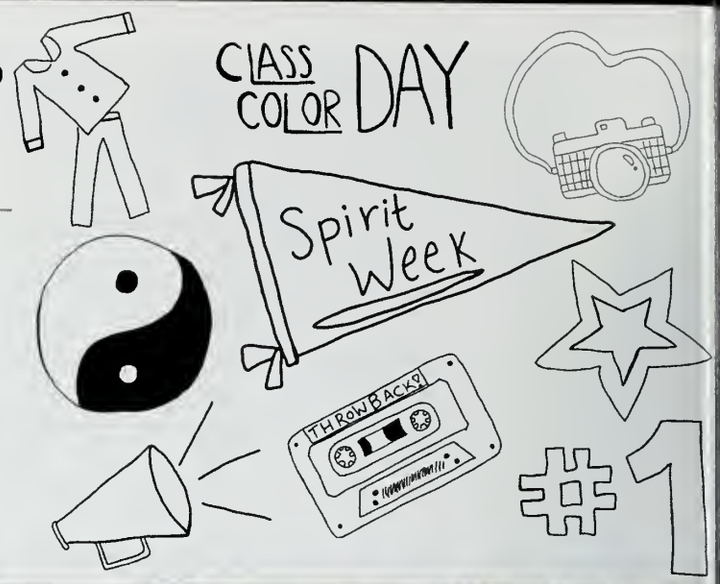
WE'VE GOT SPIRIT, YES WE DO!



This year, Spirit Week had more participants than ever. The hallways were always filled with smiles and laughs for both participants and observers.

Spirit Week opened with Pajama Monday, causing many students to drift off to sleep in their cozy footie pajamas or with their adorable teddy bears. Tuesday was Tourist Day and the halls were decked with flashy Hawaiian shirts or classy shades. Wednesday was the traditional Dynamic Duo Day, with students teaming up to have the best costumes. Thursday was renamed Throwback Thursday, stemming from the popular fad on Instagram. And, as always, Friday was Class Color Day. While Pajama Day and Dynamic Duo Day remained as popular as ever, Class Color day revealed Uni's true spirit. The only colors to be seen in the entire school were orange, black, red, blue, and neon for subbies, freshman, sophomores, juniors, and seniors respectively. Among the crowd was an occasional yellow shirt that represented a faculty member.

As usual, the students participated in a school wide assembly that featured an obstacle relay course, three-legged race, wheelbarrow race, half court shot, and charades. Sadly, because the rope was broken, tug-o'-war was not an event for this year. Seniors took first, with juniors as runner-ups, followed by freshman, sophomores, and subbies.

Despite the speakers being broken due to a mishap at the previous dance and Spirit Week being a last minute decision, this week proved itself, once again, to be a stress reliever and fun time for both students and faculty alike.

20.

Since 1977, Agora Days has called for alumni, faculty, parents, and students to teach classes covering a range of topics to their peers. This year, Fing was in charge of class sign ups by hosting the process online. Though there was originally a shortage in classes available to choose from, several students stepped up to propose ones of their own. This year, over one hundred courses were available to choose from. Some of these classes included "Power Yoga" taught by Rochelle Gutierrez, "Bollywood and Indian Cinema" taught by none other than Shaleen Agrawal, "Tea Ceremonies from Around the World" taught by Isaak Haberman and Natalie Dullerud, "The Evolution of Feminism in Disney Movies" led by Hadley Shapland, and "Explorations of Reality in the Unconscious State" taught by Raebekkah Pratt-Clarke and Andrew Nguyen. While it was no surprise that cooking classes were to first to be filled, many students still chose to enroll in new coming classes involving card games, popular television shows, and foreign languages.

Habitat Leader

Habitat for Humanity

By far one of Uni's most popular clubs, the numerous members of Habitat for Humanity worked hard throughout the year to raise money for their Clarksdale affiliate. Students kicked off the school year with the annual Habitat Dodgeball Tournament and costume contest, followed by the Habitat Garage Sale in December. Then, in honor of the new year, the club held Habitat Story Telling Night, featuring tales from Mr. Sutton, Amy, Mr. Mitchell and Ms. Majerus. The following month, club members organized a Bake Off and raised over $480! Students also raised money by raking leaves and performing other similar chores as part of "Chores for Clarksdale."

During Agora Week, a group of juniors and seniors traveled down to Clarksdale, located in the heart of the Mississippi Delta, to assist in the construction of a Habitat house. Under the supervision of Bill Sutton and Doug Mynatt, as well as the ever amazing construction supervisor Ben Williams, students helped lay the foundation for the new house, in hail and freezing rain no less. But thanks to Ms. Morford and Dr. Nuckolls extraordinary culinary skills, students always had an amazing meal to look forward to after working in the cold weather. Participants also had opportunities to visit the local soup kitchen, as well as after-school programs such as Spring Initiative and Griot, whose goals are to help at-risk children and teenagers create a community that seeks justice and healing. Uni students, however, were dismayed to learn that crucial programs in Spring such as "Baby University" were in danger of shutting down due to severe lack of funds.

Students were angered by the many injustices they learned about and witnessed, but were inspired to make a difference both in Clarksdale and Urbana-Champaign. Senior Sally Pennacchi eloquently sums up the experience, saying it was both "frickin' amazing" and a "profoundly eye-opening experience."

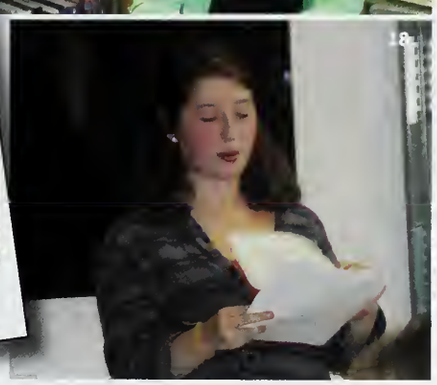
Agora Unleashed



Agora Unleashed is a series of presentations on the various personal interests of students, held in the library during Friday Uni Periods in preparation for Uni's annual Agora Week in February. Carmen Gewirth was the first to present, and led a discussion on the queen of pop culture, Beyoncé, and her feminist message. Coleman Solis followed with a presentation on Alternative Rap, featuring music by rap artists such as Das Racist and Tyler the Creator. Last but not least, Isaak Haberman educated listeners about the Green Bay Packers and explained in depth his unconditional love for the football team.

OUTSIDE OF SCHOOL

Uni students explore and excel outside of the classroom by volunteering, forming clubs, and winning competitions in the community.

Figure Skating

Sophomore Lucia Lombardi, freshman Augusta Mansfield, and subbie Tina Wayne have been spinning and jumping and working on their fancy footwork for years. The twist is that they do it all on the ice. These three figure skaters compete in competitions sponsored by Ice Skating International (ISI) and United States Figure Skating (USFS).

Figure skating's a sport that demands hours of practice at the rink but Tina doesn't mind. She says, "Ice skating is a way to escape to a different place. It is so rewarding to dedicate yourself day after day, year after year, to develop skills that others can't even comprehend doing. It feels like I've accomplished something."

Even in their free time, Lucia, Augusta, and Tina find ways to get back onto the ice. They teach basic skills of skating to children ages 3 to 12 years old in Danville. Students interested in figure skating can talk to Ms. Lombardi or go online and look it up on the University of Illinois' recreational homepage. If you're just interested in casual ice skating, you can visit the Ice Arena and look for free skate times.

Youth Orchestra

The St. Patrick's Youth Orchestra was cofounded by Uni junior Noah Larson and sophomore Matthew Reeder, along with Matthew's brother Jack. Their mission was to bring students of varying ages and levels together to make beautiful music.

Their first concert was in April of 2013, with a theme of sacred music arranged for orchestra. Now in their third season, the group has increased vastly in numbers, starting with 15 at the first concert, to around 50 students for their Summer 2014 concert. Concert themes have ranged from Halloween to movie music and to classical favorites. The group is entirely student-run, as Jack and Noah are co-conductors, Matthew and Noah are frequent composers/arrangers for the group, and the rehearsal/concert planning team is headed up by Jack.

Uni students have played a vital role in the group since its inception, and they have students coming from around six other area schools as well, including a sizable group of home-schoolers. Two years since their start, the mission is still the same, as they bring in students for an educational music experience as well as a social one.

If students are interested in joining the group, they must be between 7th and 12th grade with at least a year of experience on their instrument. You do not have to be Catholic or a member of St. Patrick's church (or even religious at all) to join. They can be reached at stpatsyouthorchestra@gmail.com.

Speed Skating

Senior Noah Lopez and freshman Anna Troutt speedskate during the winter. Speed skating is an excellent way to stay active during the winter without freezing outside. Noah and Anna have both been skating for eight years; they have made friends across the country and met people who they never would have met without skating. Anna and Noah skate with the Champaign Regional Speed skating Club which has churned out stars such as Bonnie Blair and Jonathan Kuck.

Over the course of Noah's speed skating career, he has qualified for and competed in both Long Track Nationals and Short Track Nationals. Anna's competitions have taken her all over the Midwest with meets and time trials in Chicago and Milwaukee. The Champaign Regional Speed skating Club has practice almost every Wednesday night from 6:00PM to 7:10PM during the winter. Send an email to one of the club leaders, or talk to somebody that you know who skates, and they'll see if the club has any skates that will fit you.

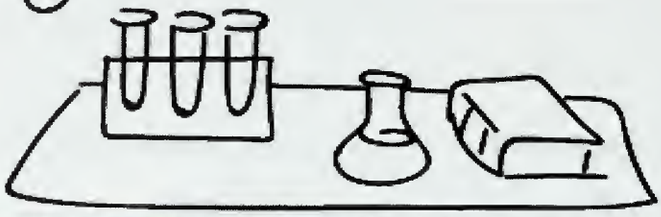
CTRL-Z

Ctrl-Z is the FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) Robotics team of Chambana. Every year a group of impassioned high school students compete in the annual FRC challenge, designing robots capable of everything from throwing frisbees to building towers. They are heavily invested in the community, working with organizations from all across Illinois to spread STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) education and a passion for engineering.

Ctrl-Z is composed of 31 students from the area, 17 of which originate from Uni High. They do it because they love it. They love building things, they love teaching others, and they love the energy and passion of the team. If you are interested in getting involved, feel free to ask anyone in their flamboyant orange shirts for information or feel free to stop by their shop any time.

Research



Multiple students at Uni are involved in research with professors at the University of Illinois. Some get involved as seniors through the school's senior project option while others look for opportunities independently.

Sophomore Miriam Ross and junior Natalie Dullerud are currently working on a research project at Professor Silverman's biochemistry laboratory at the University of Illinois. At the lab, they're looking for a DNA sequence that can break down the amino acid phenylalanine. If a sequence is found to can break down phenylalanine, it could help manage the levels of it in the blood for people affected by phenylketonuria, an incurable genetic disease.

Senior Tommy Song works in a lab where he synthesizes palladium cubes that are used to observe metallic properties at a nanoscale level. To put things into perspective, a skin cell is about 30,000 nanometers long. Palladium has many applications and has the potential to be used to harvest solar energy.

Senior Raebekkah Pratt-Clarke is using Tobii Glasses to determine differences between coaching styles of men and women in basketball. The glasses track and record visual and audio information which allows her to analyze points of focus between the two sexes. Currently, she is helping her mentor with a sports psychology project concerning the Illinois Rugby Club.

These students say that it's pretty easy to get involved with research because of the close proximity of the university and they encourage everyone interested to reach out and give it a try.

Scouting

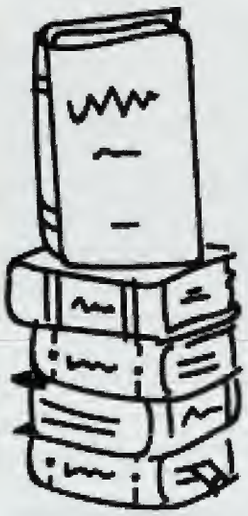
Many students at Uni, including seniors Nick Shapland, Grant DeAtley, and Bruce Li, junior Jacob Rajlich, and sophomores Ezra Johnson, Jonah Herzog and Quinn Powers, are involved with the Boy Scouts of America. Boy Scouts is a national youth organization dedicated to promoting civic engagement and community service in male youths. Central to the Boy Scout program is duty to others, which is exemplified through frequent community service projects and outreach programs. Another important factor is leadership, which is encouraged by having multiple elected offices in each unit, or Troop.

Common activities include outdoor camp outs and field trips to natural or historical sites. Overall, scouting is an excellent way to meet other people from different backgrounds and schools, while learning how to become model citizens. Anyone interested can learn more about the Scouting program by contacting their local Troop.

Ballet

Michelle Lu, Hailan Shanbhag, Lara Morgan, Katherine Alghren, Irina Cheng, Maggie Tewksbury, and Sofia Ebel are Company dancers at the Champaign Urbana Ballet. They say that their dedication and years of training has shaped them in terms of discipline, work ethic, and artistry. Each week, they take technique and pointe classes, attend rehearsals, costume fittings, and occasionally do volunteer costume work or teach younger dancers. This all culminates into two large annual performances: The Nutcracker at Krannert Center every December, and another classical ballet at The Virginia Theatre in May -- this year is Swan Lake. Students agree that everyone in the Company starts to feel like family soon enough.

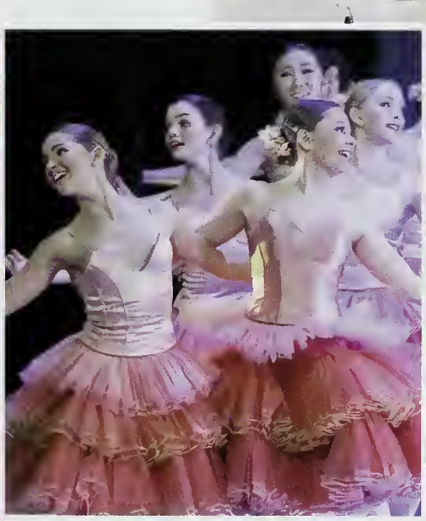
One of the highlights of every year is The Nutcracker. There's a certain thrill of being on stage, performing months of work in a beautiful costume, that can't be reproduced anywhere else. Even better is going backstage after a performance. The whole community truly comes together. Everyone from good friends and family to the Chancellor of the University comes out. People often say it doesn't feel like Christmas until they've seen the Nutcracker. Senior Michelle Lu, a 13-year veteran of CU-Ballet says, "Hundreds of hours of rehearsal go into a five-minute variation on stage. That fleeting thrill is worth it a million times over."



Library

Junior Ben Schiffer and Monica Pardeshi volunteer at the Champaign Public Library. Their work mostly includes sorting returned books and DVDs and reshelving them. They also help find requested books and organize books and DVDs that are already on the shelves. Their main reason for participating is because so much of their time is spent on school and extracurriculars, they rarely do anything for the community.

Ben states: "I spent a lot of time at libraries when I was a younger kid, and I know how hard it is to keep places like that running smoothly, so I thought volunteering there would be a good opportunity for me to give back to the community." Libraries such as the Champaign Public Library cannot function without volunteers and helping them out, even just shelving a couple of carts means that there is that much less work other people have to do.



STUDCO

StudCo had another busy year of trying to make Uni High a better place.

Every week, Student Council meets with a few faculty sponsors to discuss various topics from the weekly agenda, which can cover anything from Uni High's budget (or lack of one) to the hygienic issues that come hand-in-hand with the microwaves in the kitchen, from planning fundraisers to approving clubs to organizing school-wide events. This year, Student Council set a goal to be more accessible to their peers and they made a commendable effort to listen to their fellow students. "Not only has Student Council taught me how to be a leader, but it allowed me to get to know my class better, and I am grateful to be able to represent the Class of 2016," said Claire Dickerson, president of the junior class.

PUBLICATIONS

Uni High publications saw many changes this year, ranging from technological adjustments to content.

This year, the Uni High publications continued their trend f getting better with time. The relatively new yearbook staff pent the year becoming familiar with the updated versions f InDesign and Photoshop, while reinventing the yearbook) a way never seen before. Unique was published and filled ith original poems, short stories, pictures and artwork. he Gargoyle continued reporting stories for the Uni High ublic. Article subjects included new classroom furniture, ew teachers, and interesting tricks that Uni students can o. The World Wide Web class spent the majority of this ear rebuilding the Uni High website that crashed after it ontracted a virus. Through this process, they learned how) make a website from scratch, which is a skill many of hem will utilize later in life.

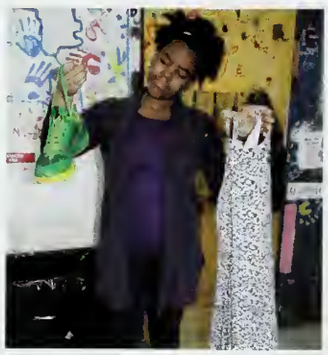
Alyson, Maia, and Isaak are here to answer your troubles, trivia, and everything in between.

I'm not doing well in my fitness class and I'm kind of insecure about it. I want to improve. Suggestions?

Alyson & Maia: You definitely have the right mind-set about it! Fitness is about your own personal health, so if you're not doing as well as others, THAT'S OKAY. Everyone goes at their own pace and no one will judge you for that. Try setting personal goals (for example, "I want to run a mile in this amount of time"). You'll feel awesome when you meet your goals! If you stick with it and try hard, you'll slowly, but steadily, see an improvement!

Isaak: You should start running backwards. Studies have shown that running backwards burns more calories than running forwards.

What can I do to look chic this season?



Alyson & Maia: Look through magazines, and if you see a style you like, try to emulate it.

Isaak: My personal fave this time of year, or any time of year, is a nice combination of green and yellow/gold that contrasts nicely with any skin tone.

Hey y'all, what's the best way of asking someone to a dance?

Alyson & Maia: Find out their interests and what they like! The classic way to ask someone is with a poster, so try to think of a fun pun to put on there! If you're feeling more creative or you want to make a memorable moment, go big. Make sure they are the type of person to like public displays, because you don't want them to become embarrassed! Don't be nervous to ask them, they're sure to say yes!

Isaak: The optimal way to ask someone to a dance is to break into your prospective date's house in the middle of the night, slip them $100, and whisper "lets go to the dance, baby." They won't be able to resist.

My parents are pressuring me about college, but I have no idea what I want to do or where I want to go. Am I the only one like this?

Alyson & Maia: You are absolutely NOT the only one like this! There are plenty of other kids who don't know what they want to do or where they want to go. There are even people in college who still don't know! Many colleges have programs for people who are undecided. If you're feeling worried, your counselor is always there to help you. As for your parents, make sure that they understand your feelings. Keeping it to yourself won't help, and will probably make your entire family feel worse. Don't forget that they will love you no matter what you decide! Ultimately you have to do what makes you happy, but that doesn't mean it has to be right now.

Isaak: The best way to get out of this situation is to take a gap year and work at McDonald's or Dairy Queen. That way, you can get started on a wonderful career and won't need to go to college.

Help! My best friend and I are in a huge fight! What should I do?

Alyson & Maia: Talk it out. Communication is key in this situation, you don't want to leave anything unsettled. Sit down with your friend and tell them how you feel. If they really do value your friendship, they will listen to your feelings. You should do the same for them. If the argument wasn't a misunderstanding, try to work out a compromise that would make both of you happy. If they don't comply or don't accept your apology, they may need more space to blow off some steam. Give it some time, they are your Best friend for a reason and we're sure they will come around!

Isaak: It's simple: ditch them and find a new best friend. They probably suck anyways, so it's not a big deal. If you don't want to do that, a good way to get over an argument is to date your best friends girlfriend/boyfriend. That way, you guys can have a special connection.

My grades are slipping and I'm super stressed. Is there anything I can do?

Alyson & Maia: Never be afraid to ask for help. Talk to your teachers and see if there is anything you can do to bring it up, maybe revisions or extra credit. If there isn't, don't freak out, it's not the end of the world. Stay focused on your work and try to limit your procrastination. Your teachers and your friends are here to help you.

Isaak: If I were you, I'd give up now. If you really need to get your grades up, bribe your teachers, they always appreciate that.

"'The Mouse That Roared' was a new experience for many. There were only 7 upperclassmen involved on the whole and so it was a really great opportunity to involve people who had never done theatre before in an exciting way. As with anything, there was a learning curve, but by tech week we were confident that we were going to have an excellent show. With every dress up day our excitement soared and with each performance we felt renewed. Our cast was large but we were still a family. We still came together to push each other to do our best every night. I got to watch the show, something I've never gotten to do before, and it was incredible how a lot of amazing talent and many hours of hard work could make something that seemed like it could blow up like a Quadium Bomb into a triumphant mouse that roars to proudly congratulate us all on our achievements."

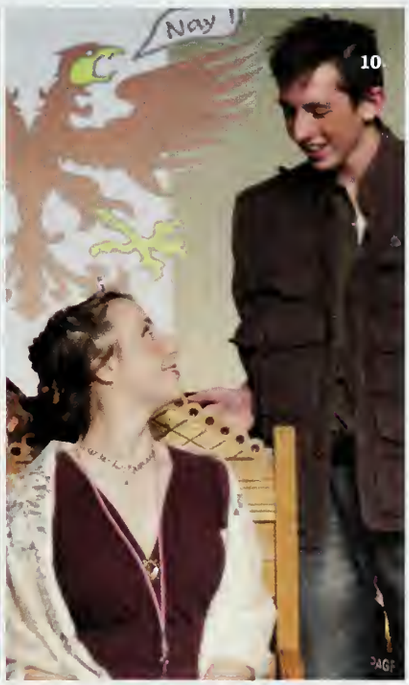
A Roaring Good Time

The Uni High theatre crew delivers a performance that is as explosive as a Quadium bomb.

With a stellar cast and fun story line, "The Mouse That Roared" did not disappoint. The cast took the audience through the story of the small country of the Duchy of Grand Fenwick, whose economy relied solely on making their Pinot Grand Fenwick wine. When a knock-off version of their wine threatened the country's economy, they decided to declare war on the United States of America, so that they would receive money after their inevitable defeat. This plan all changed when the Duchy of Grand Fenwick, led by the hardworking but naive Tully Bascomb, won the war and brought prisoners back home, along with a super dangerous Quadium bomb.

The Duchess Gloriana and her attendants were not pleased with Tully, and had to figure out what to do with their prisoners: an army sergeant, two soldiers, and the scientist who created the Quadium bomb, Professor Kokintz. The Duchess Gloriana eventually decided to not use the super powerful bomb as a threat, and instead used it for world peace. After making up, Gloriana and Tully got married and at the wedding, Professor Kokintz realized that the bomb was a dud, but decided keep that fact a secret and allow it to continue to be used as a "peace weapon." With extraordinary performances by everyone in the cast, "The Mouse That Roared" was another spectacular show put on by the Uni High theatre crew.



1. Darshan Naidu looks spiffy as he introduces the President. 2. Esther Johnson and Linus Erbach, both seniors, smile out at the audience during their last Uni Fall play. 3. Solomia Dzhaman, Kate Snyder and Ally Sussman had lots of fun chatting on stage. 4. Gillian Moore, who played the President of the United States, inspects a vile of Quadium. 5. Malika Luther and Jay Sridharan talk some sense into Esther Johnson. 6. The tourists look at the pictures they just took of the crazy soldiers marching through New York City. 7. The soldiers line up to prepare for their invasion. 8. The soldiers proudly look down at their new prisoners, freshman Elizabeth Singer and sophomore Ethans Simmons. 9. Freshmen Vickram Perry, Anupam Sharma, and Kat Williams get ready to invade the United States of America. 10. Esther Johnson and Linus Erbach stare lovingly into each other's eyes. 11. Bella Solis, Catalin Clougherty, Lizzy Ramos and Annemily Hoganson get interviewed for a news special. 12. The Thespians proudly smile for a group picture. 13. Elizabeth Singer puts on a sassy and fun performance as the scientist.

VISUAL ART

This year, students participated in and won awards at a large variety of events. At the Itsy Bitsy art show, which was held in the Krannert Art Museum, sophomore Giulia Barbieri won 1st place for the 10th grade, and senior Ema Ondrejckova received an honorable mention. Giulia also won a scholarship to FAA's summer show for her work. Uni students also participated in the 32nd Annual Insect Fear Film Festival Art Contest. This year's theme was female entomologists. Subfreshman Olivia Taylor won Best in Show, with seniors Jackie Carrubba and Mary Feser placing 2nd and 3rd, respectively, in 9th through 12 grade, and subfreshman Ana Rosu placing 3rd in 6th-8th grade. Senior Gillian Moore also participated in the Millikin University High School Art Show, where she won the Millikin Art Faculty award, in addition to one of the two honorable mentions for best in show (and a total of $200)!

Music In the Making

Both the orchestra and choir programs shine with spectacular performances and major achievements in musical competitions.

In the 2014 – 2015 school year, the music program continued to thrive. The orchestra and choir programs were completely filled with students, resulting in a very crowded attic. There were 107 students participating in Orchestra and 77 students in Choir. Of these students, 17 were in Madrigals. When called upon, seniors stepped up and became leaders on days when the orchestra was divided into a band section and a strings section. On a few occasions, even the Choir was split up into separate sections.

Many students participated in the Illinois Music Educators Associations District festival. This year, 33 people made it to the festival and eight of them were invited back to the State festival. The State festival attendees were seniors Bruce Li and Darren Liu, juniors Kavi Naidu, Ellen Rispoli, Natalie Dullerud, Monica Pardeshi, and Noah Larson, and sophomore Devin Epstein.

With both great quantity and quality of musicians in the music program, it looks like the future of Uni music is in great hands.

GIRL POWER

Sports Highlights 2014-2015: Multiple girls' squads made Uni proud.

Under the direction and guidance of head coach Doug Mynatt, the girls cross country team traveled to the State meet held in Peoria. The team started their season strong with senior Maya Dutta leading the runners. Freshman Arielle Summit and returning sophomore Annemarie Michael climbed to the top of the ranks as they led the team by constantly placing high in the ranks at meets.

After securing third place in the Regional meet, the team continued their post-season journey and went to the Sectional meet. The girls snagged 4th place at the Sectional meet, one place higher than their 5th place finish in the 2013 season. After placing in the Sectional meet, the team headed to the final IHSA State meet. All of their training paid off, and after much hard work and devotion, the team placed 2nd overall. Notable individual finishes in the three-mile race include Arielle Summitt taking 3rd Place with a time of 17:17 and Annemarie Michael taking 5th Place with a time of 17:27.

Trip to Alaska

The returning varsity players of the 2014 girls basketball team journeyed to the beautiful landscape of Juneau, Alaska. When head coach Talisa Rhea presented the idea of participating in a tournament in her home town, the dream seemed impossible to 2013 players. However, the dream soon became a reality as the team started fund-raising for the trip. Several food sales and scholarships later, the girls collected enough money to make Alaska possible.

After weeks of practicing not only for seasonal games, but also for Juneau's Capital City Classic tournament, the team felt ready. With packed bags and bodies bundled up for the weather, the girls met in Chicago O'Hare on December 26, 2014. Several hours and two planes later, they arrived in Juneau's airport where they met with their host families, and separated from their teammates and coaches. Each player was paired with one or two other individuals and sent to stay with members of the Juneau-Douglas girls basketball players. Despite being grouped with their competitors teams, the girls performed well in the tournament, tying for first place and taking home the trophy.

STARTING STRONG

Girls Basketball

This year, Head Coach Rebecca Murphy directed the Subbie Girls Basketball Team. She was helped by Student Assistant Coach Raebekkah Pratt-Clarke. The team won a total of two games throughout their season. Their first victory came against Next Generation with a score of 16 – 13. The team was led by Macheila Anderson, Sarah Perdekamp, Raine Bernhard, Emma Hummel, and Jessica Valete.

Cross Country

This year, both the Boys and Girls Subbie XC teams performed well, with every member qualifying for state. Even though the girls team consisted of only two runners (Olivia Taylor and Anika Kimme), they both qualified for state individually. Anika Kimme finished the season by placing 85th at state with a time of 13:31. Olivia Taylor finished with a similar time of 13:30, placing 77th at state. The boys team qualified as a team led by Alex Swanson-Linville who finished with a time of 11:50 to place 43rd in state. The other boys also ran well with Aidan Garrett placing 71st place, Matthew Cho placing 120th, Samuel Li placing 132nd, Noah Johnson placing 152nd, Jack Easley placing 161st, and DJ Nelson placing 186th.

Boys Basketball

This year, the team was coached by Head Coach Benjamin Leff with help from Assistant Coach Michael Zearing. They had a great season led by Asante' Woods, Abraham Han, Ethan Soloveychik, Tim Cho, and DJ Nelson. Their ending record was 6 -12, ending with a loss in regionals. Even though they had a losing record, the boys had a positive look on the season. "It was a fun experience that prepared me well for next year and beyond," commented DJ Nelson.

EYES TO THE FUTURE

The 2014 JV team had their eyes focused on the future, training hard so they could represent Uni next year as part of the 2015 Varsity squad.

The incoming squad of freshmen made a huge contribution to the returning junior varsity players. The additions of Jan Ondrejcek and Paul D'Angelo in the midfield along with the Robbennolt twins (Jake and Dale) on defense were key to some of JV's major victories, including wins against Monticello and St. Joseph. The entire team had a great season; they practiced harder than ever to get stronger, faster, and better control of the ball.

The synergy between the new and returning players was incredible. The team built bonds with each other that will last a lifetime. This was apparent especially towards the end of the season, when the team crushed St. Thomas More, one of Uni's greatest rivals, with a 4-0 win. Throughout the game, the team was seen moving up and across the field with finesse and determination.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

The JV volleyball team, being bigger than ever, had to be split into two separate teams this year. Although they were skeptical at first, it proved to be a good tactic.

With many new players this year, both the JV and Varsity teams were at full capacity. Because JV did not have enough jerseys for one whole team, they had to split in two, giving themselves the names Orange Team and Blue Team. Many veterans weren't sure how well this would work, especially concerning illnesses and injuries, which tended to happen quite often. But despite these misgivings, the teams pushed on and played better than they ever have in the last two years. This season, JV volleyball won three games which boosted morale and set a new standard for teams to come. Splitting up the teams gave players an opportunity to bond and work well with a specific set of players. Overall, the team had a very successful season and hope to continue their streak into next year.

PLAY BALL

The JV boys basketball team saw a change of coaches mid-season, but that did not prevent them from playing hard, and most importantly, as a team.

This year, the JV program did not start off the season as they had hoped, but the team improved as the season progressed. New coach, Chad Hesterberg, took over the team mid-season and helped the team attain the right mindset to win. The boys continued to play well depsite having to learn a new system. Led by freshman Paul D'Angelo, sophomore Cameron Butler, and junior lock-down defender Dong-Ha Son, the team won their first game against a strong Tri-County squad. Junior Michael Anukwu's toughness sparked the team to another big win against a competitive Deland-Weldon squad.

The Illineks finished the season 3-15, but their record didn't define their season. Their competitiveness and aggressiveness in all games gave their season a successful end.

A STEP UP

The girls JV team gave it their all and saw significant improvement throughout the season this year.

The girls JV baskeball team came into the season with a young group of players looking to improve every step of the way. With five freshmen starters and a strong sophomore supporting cast, the girls were able to beat a competetive Arthur-Okaw squad for their first win of the season. Their improvement throughout the course of the season was evident as the girls were able to put up an increasing amount of points every game.

The JV girls, led by freshmen guards Michelle Kim, Grace Qiu, helped control the games and orchestrate the offense. On the defensive end, Anna Ding and Maya Greer provided a strong presence under the basket making it tough for opponents to score. The Illineks went 1-12 this season, but the future looks promising for the girls' junior varsity basketball program.

A NEW START

The Uni High boys soccer team looked to build a young, but talented team this season.

Four seniors guided a young team into the 2014 season hoping to continue the past year's successes on the pitch. This year, younger players had a chance to show off their talents. Freshmen brothers Omeed and Rahi Miraftab-Salo had a decisive impact on the team and immediately saw significant playing time. The Illineks were also composed of a strong, returning junior class including Panos Voulgaris, Luie Siegel, and Chris Bauer.

The 2014 season began with several wake-up calls for the traditionally strong Illineks. The boys dropped the first game of the season against Williamsville and placed second in the Sally Walker Invitational. However, as the season progressed, the Illineks regained their swagger. Uni headed across town and capped off "the win of the season" with a 3-2 victory at Centennial. After trailing by a goal, Uni netted three unanswered goals to take a 3-1 lead at half. Another significant victory for the Illineks was the 5-1 sweep against arch-rival Judah Christian.

Uni headed into the IHSA Regional semi-final game against St. Thomas More with a 9-7-2 record. Seniors Isaak Haberman, Joshua Meling, Noah Lopez, and Tim Winter-Nelson led the team in a valiant effort, but the Illineks fell short, 2-1, in a thrilling match. Despite the loss, the boys soccer team had an exciting season that they can look back on with pride.

reflections

Isaak Haberman

"This year, we had a younger, relatively inexperienced team which presented new challenges. Although we under-achieved in the playoffs, we played close and hard in all our matches. I will never forget the fantastic times on and off the field that I had with these guys."

Chris Bauer

"During a JV game Jonah made a move on the wing and made the defense look bad. Upon seeing this, Luie screamed, "How does that make you feel big boy!" Though the Varsity's support for the JV team may not always be present, it's always humorous."

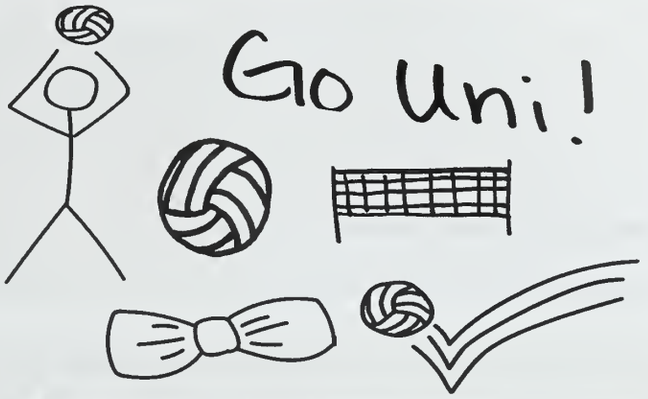
QUEENS OF THE COURT



Bump, set, spike it, that's the way we like it. A series of ups and downs led the team to bond together and end the season with a bang!

The varsity volleyball season started out rocky after the loss of two key players to graduation: setter Brigette Dietz and hitter Carter Stancil. The team had to learn to work together with a new group of starters, which led to some tough games early on. Toward the end of the season however, the team hit their stride, placing third at the ECIC tournament. The girls became close friends and teammates, which led to the team winning five out of their last ten games. "This year, I thought we worked really well as a team. We seemed to know each other's strengths and weaknesses and be able to play off of them," said junior Beth Geistlinger. The season record does not accurately reflect the skill that the varsity team had this year. "Our record definitely doesn't reflect the effort or talent that was involved in this season which is frustrating, but I'm still proud of all we accomplished," said junior Maddie Brown.

A highlight of the season was the match against the Fisher Bunnies. Fisher was a strong team with a much better record than Uni's, but that only served to inspire the varsity team to play harder than ever before. "One of our best games was against Fisher, where the entire team just had crazy energy and we played probably the best we ever had. We kept with the other team until the end. Even though we lost, we all felt great about the game and were excited to tell Lis who was out of town for it!" said senior Grace Lilly. Assistant coach Lauren Taylor agrees, saying "My favorite moment this season was coaching the varsity during the Fisher game! Uni fought with passion and created a very close game with one of the top games. Even though we lost, I had never seen so many smiles on the players' faces!"

"It sucked that we lost our regional game, but I think we played really well and I was very, very proud of us, especially considering we were playing a 2A team and we didn't have the most positive outlook on the game after our bad season, but we played really hard and kept our attitudes up for the game and I guess winning just wasn't meant to be."

SPEED OF LIGHT

With skilled veterans, swift new members, and fearless spirit, the Uni Girls were never short of success.

Under Coach Mynatt's inspiring leadership, the Girl's Cross Country team had their most accomplished season in school history. The squad was anchored by returning seniors Maya Dutta, Carmen Gewirth, and Alice Chang who served as encouraging mentors for their teammates. Incoming freshmen Arielle Summitt and Elizabeth Atkinson added fresh talent to the ranks, and key returnees Annemarie Michael, Ha-il Son, Rima Rebei, Tori Aber, and Juniors Katie Tender and Berit Rasmussen churned out great times throughout the season.

After another dominating performance in the regular season, Uni traveled across town to the IHSA Regional at St. Thomas More and placed third of eleven scoring teams. A week later Uni earned a state qualification and a fourth-place team finish behind SJO, St. Teresa, and Monticello at Sectionals. At IHSA State Finals in Peoria, they competed for the eighteenth time in Uni history with Summitt and Michael snagging tenth and eleventh all-state finishes. Tender, Aber, Son, Rasmussen, and Atkinson completed the talented varsity squad. With only SJO ahead in the standings, the squad placed an incredible second at state; bringing home Uni's third team trophy for girls and beating the girl's team's record third state placing from 1988 and 1991.

Along with their fantastic successes this season, the girls not only grew close over their practices, pasta parties, and race experiences, but created plenty of memories that they'll remember for years to come.

Berit Rasmussen

"This season we had lots of crazy fast girls. When we realized we had state potential, we focused on running as a team and packing it up during races. It was a great season: having fun during practice, staying in a hotel before state, and especially driving home after state with a 2nd place trophy. We were pretty ecstatic, and the best part is we get to do it all again next year- hopefully with the 1st place trophy this time."

Athena Feng

"Though my team members were constantly under pressure to rank 1st in state, we always had enough leisure to obsess over whether it was going to be a "shorts" or "leggings" day."

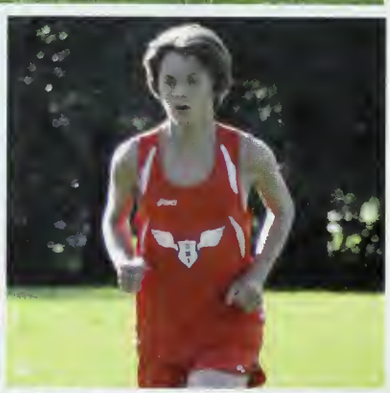
Continuing the Tradition

The team had high standards to meet this year and they lived up to them with the help of both newbies and veterans.

Entering the season having lost their top four runners from the previous season, the 2014 boys cross-country team looked to rebuild a varsity team that could continue their streak and take them all the way to state. They found what they were looking for in many talented freshmen, including varsity members Kaden Canales and Grant Allen.

With the injury to key runner, junior Justin Wang, at the beginning of the season, the Illineks had to pick up the pace to start the year off well. They took the challenge head-on and stepped up their game, leading to many respectable finishes in their first meets. But according to Justin Wang, "If there was a moment where the guys team really believed that they could make the state meet, it was after we got third at Tuscola." The team beat PBL, the team ranked fifth in what is acknowledged as the "hardest sectionals in the state (by far)," giving the Illineks hope that they could advance all the way.

They did indeed advance past sectionals, nabbing the last qualifying spot. Along with the girls cross-country team, they moved on to the IHSA State meet. With five scoring finishes, the Illineks placed 16th overall. For a relatively new team, the boys were proud of what they had accomplished this season and they look forward to more successes.



1. Team huddles together and talks before the race. 2. Junior Marshal Allston-Yeagle leads the race and his team through the course. 3. Junior RJ Money picks up the pace as he runs through the race. 4. Junior Andy Barbour keeps a strong pace and continues running.

Giving their all

1. Junior Justin Wang runs towards the finish line, pushing his body to the limit.
2. Junior Marshal Allston-Yeagle is expending all his energy to finish the race strong.
3. Senior Ansel Higgs runs with determination and vigor as he exerts himself to keep with the leaders.

Ansel Higgs

"I didn't start the season expecting to run at state. But the team really packed it up and had a great season."

Isaac Freund

"We had a great season this year, welcoming several strong freshman. We made it to state which was unexpected but great. Next year we will have an even stronger team with great seniors."

A Whaley Good Team

Adopting the whale as their mascot, the Uni Girls Swim Team had a killer season. With hard work and perseverance, the girls managed to win sectionals as well as sen seven girls to the State meet.

The Uni High Girls' Swim team season was filled with changes. The girls welcomed a new Coach, Dave Young, as well as three new assistant coaches, Courtney Lehman, Jenny Hill, and Katherine Penwell. For th first time in Uni history, the team also included a dive Sofia Carrillo along with her coach, Rachel Tyson. Though the girls faced many obstacles throughout th season, they managed to come together as a team and defend their title as sectional champions for the second year in a row.

The girls learned to be flexible with their crazy schedule, practicing in six different pools over the course of their season. The work outs were a balance of focus to improve their strong events while training their weaker events to help the girls become more well rounded swimmers. To help the team bond, the captains, Claire Michael, Joy Jin, and Simone Gewirth organized a scavenger hunt all around the town. One of the team's favorite practices was the Halloween workout where Coach Young turned the Freer boys locker room into a haunted house along with other fu festive games organized by the captains. Through all the ups and downs, the girls' success was truly a team effort and we can expect great things from the whales in seasons to come!

1. Freshman Ema Rajic is soaring and flying in the 100 butterfly event. 2. The team gets pumped for sectionals, cheering "Our team is what? Red Hot!" 3. Junior Madeleine Nelson, the 500 Queen, prepares to kick-butt in her sectional race. 4. The team says "peace out" to their beloved Freer Pool before it is closed. 5. Captain cuties leading their team with a smile.

Claire Michael

"I had so much fun on the team this year because everyone was so enthusiastic and supportive of each other. I think that's one of the reasons why we're such a great team."

Dave Young

"The girls had a outstanding season and had a lot of fun. As a small team, everyone contributed to the overall success in all meets and invitationals. They were Sectional Champions for the second straight year, defeating much larger schools, and advancing seven girls to the state meet. Every swimmer achieved a personal record and six school records were also set. Next year, the girls will look for a three peat at Sectionals."

HOOP DREAMS

Success demands singleness of purpose.
- Vince Lombardi

Coming into the new season, the Illineks had high expectations after losing in regionals the previous year. With the loss of valuable seniors, the team relied more on young talent.

The Illineks started off the season on a good note, winning two of their five games at the Tri-County Turkey Tournament. From there, they lost four of their next five before starting league play. Against ECIC opponents, the Illineks fared a little better, going 3-4.

The team pulled it together before the conference tournament, upsetting Arcola. Coming into the ECIC Tournament hot, the Illineks dominated Decatur Christian and beat #1 seed Normal Calvary by 10. In the championship game, the Illineks held a steady lead throughout, beating Cornerstone Christian by 10 to be crowned conference tournament champions for the first time in Uni High history.

The Illineks historic season came to a bitter end with a tough loss to rival Judah Christian in the IHSA Regional.

Freshman Noah Blue was a top scorer, while Camden Coleman gave the team a spark off the bench. Sophomore Varun Chopra was also a great asset, hitting threes when the team needed it most. Juniors Panos Voulgaris and Chris Bauer were reliable scorers, while seniors Isaak Haberman and Nick Shapland embraced their roles and kept the team aggressive all year long. Finally, senior Grant DeAtley and junior Jacob Rajlich gave the team extremely valuable lessons in dedication that boosted the team to the next level.

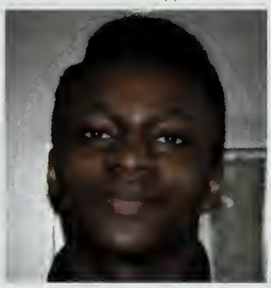
reflections

Nick Shapland

"After winning the ECIC, the team had a movie night at my house and there was a moment when "Turn Down For What" came on in 22 Jump Street and we were all singing together and I really knew I would miss that because it was the last time it could happen."



Camden Coleman

"My favorite memory from basketball this year was during a tournament where the team got to stay in a hotel together. It was a great bonding experience, and we all had a lot of fun, which included pranking Jacob and making him pee on the bathroom floor."

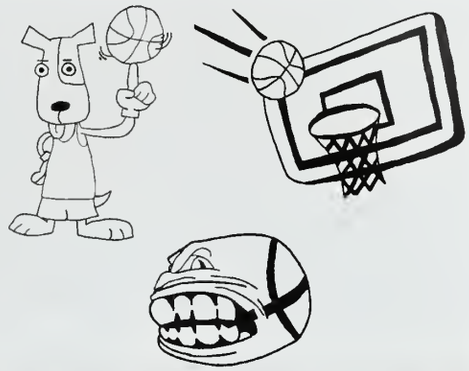
DREAM TEAM



With most of their players returning, and another year with Coach Talisa Rhea the girls were ready to put in dedication and hard work to make this season unforgettable.

This year's basketball season started with a bang. Varsity girls' started the season at the Oakwood tournament by placing seventh and winning their first games of the season. Compared to last year, the team had improved greatly, with most of their young teammates returning and a few freshmen and sophomores contributing. Also returning were Head Coach Talisa Rhea and Assistant Coach Jeff Bruer with new plays and ideas for this year's success. Still a young team, Raebekkah Pratt-Clarke, captain and the solitary senior of the year, co-leader of the team with Junior Maddie Brown as post.

Aside from the initial wins, the team's dedication and hard work prepared them for their next challenge. Returning varsity girl's players travelled to take on Alaskan teams in the Capital City Classic tournament in Juneau, Alaska. After traveling over 2000 miles, the team dominated in the tournament, tying for first and bringing back the trophy. Returning happy, Uni girls were ready to take on the rest of the season.

After an initial rough start, the team made a comeback during the conference season, winning all of their games and even holding their own against Unity, a team outside of their conference. During their winning streak, the team was ready to dominate in their conference tournament. After winning their first two games, they got a by and were able to head directly to the conference championship game against Normal Calvary. In a very close game, they placed runner-up. Although a little discouraged, they finished their season with their heads held high. For the girls, no loss could take away from their success over the season. Uni girls basketball proved that hard work and dedication will eventually pay off.

Kate Ferreira

"My favorite part of the season was traveling to Alaska. Though the flight was excruciatingly long, it paid off! Juneau was so beautiful and we had so much fun hanging out with our host families and exploring the area! But the best part was winning the Capital City Classic Tournament and bonding as a team!"

Raebekkah Pratt-Clarke

"I think once we all realized that we were good enough to compete, that confidence helped us all work a little harder in practice. We all took every game seriously and we all had enough desire to win that we were willing to put in work."

FANTASTIC AND SCHOLASTIC

Returning from their first season, the Uni High Scholastic Bowl team started practicing almost as soon as school resumed in preparation for the coming competitions. With the exception of alumnus Troy Xu, no one left the team, with Mr. Butler staying on as team coach and sponsor. The team welcomed multiple new teammates, including Grant DeAtley, Tommy Song, Caroline Gillette, Matt Reeder, and Reed Phillips. Practice time also increased, now being held every Tuesday and Thursday from 3-5PM in room 218.

The season started with a strong showing at the U of I Earlybird tournament, followed up with a 1st Place finish at IHSSBCA Novice a month later. From January to March, the team faced increasingly larger competitions and challenging opponents. Everyone pulled together in time to snag a win at Masonic Sectionals and 4th Place at Masonic State. The team quickly recovered from the Masonic tournaments to dominate both IHSA Regionals and Sectionals. With Spring Break looming, the team never lost focus entering the IHSA State Finals and dominated the competition. In the championship, Uni defeated Peoria Christian 210-190. Not bad for the school's second season competing.

UNITED IN PINK

Coaches vs. Cancer

Raffle

This year's Coaches vs. Cancer game was as successful as ever to raise money and awareness for cancer. This year, both girls and boys varsity played as well as the JV boys against our in-town rival, Judah. Throughout the night, volunteers were selling raffle tickets for a 50-50 drawing and Mexican food provided by Pancheros. Between games, fans had the chance to shoot half-court shots. Only a few people made the shots, but when they did the fans went wild.

The crowd was excited and ready to cheer on their teams. The JV boys started off the night with a strong effort, but lost in a close game. The varsity girls followed with a blowout of the Tribe shortly after, winning 53-19. The varsity boys played last and had the crowd on their feet throughout the entire game. Both Uni and Judah were fighting their hardest, but ultimately Judah pulled through for a win with the final score being 75-68.

Shay Shay, Shay Leen

Mr. Rayburn talks about how he stapled his butt a couple of days back. The following day he sits on the table.
Me: Did you just staple your butt?
Rayburn: (Moaning) Yeahhh.
Mr. Mitchell: And think about her sex education
Eric Kong: I think she's had 1st hand experience
Mr. Russell: So, that's pretty hairy.
Eric (whispering): Well, let's just shave it off!
Mr. Mitchell talks about a dead character whose coffin is really stinking, has been in the seawater, has holes in the body, and is really disgusting.
Quintin: "So basically, it smells like a republican."
Our group is trying to name the bridge project in Morris' class. We chose Save Our Awesome Bridge. Morris comes over and says, "Noo." We are confused. Then we get it. SOAB.
What the hell is a polynomial? - Lyle
In math class, it starts snowing. Issak goes up to the window to inspect. It stops snowing.
Boca: "See what you did now?"
Daniel Nibec (in an Italian accent): "Geovani gonna make a pizza!!"
Buck: "Daniel, Stoooop" (Face space goes down three levels).
You're very immature, man. -Cole (to Beesley)

I, Shri Shri Shaleen Agrawal, the great king and supervisor of the boxcar children, hereby bestow upon Jacob the right of leader of the boxcar children and entrust upon him another chance to lose money at Fantasy Football next year. Furthermore, by the powers vested in me I declare my locker the property of Lyle to draw on with utter freedom and disgust. I accredit my teachers at UNI for my fantastic education and donate upon the underclassmen the right to fantastic English discussions with Mr. Mitchell over my exquisite projects available on my five-star youtube channel. To Neil, Jack, and Monica, I pass on the leadership of Investment Club and call upon as Supreme Overlord Dictator of Latin Club a democracy for new leadership and prevention of overuse of the $8000+ funds that I accumulated over the years. To the leadership of Bollywood Club, I strongly recommend to show Jodha Akbar and Don 2. And at last, to all Juniors and young ones, I endow another year of suffering and anxiety at school, at home, on the ACT, and in college (when you never get in).

Shaleen Agrawal

Takes the scarf-modeling industry by storm and retires early to pass his knowledge onto his young ones.

I almost named you that. -Papa
Stop cowering. -Snowie
You have to start small, like oak trees. -Terry Pratchett
I must not fear. Fear is the mind killer. Fear is the little-death that brings total obliteration. I will face my fear. I will permit it to pass over me and through me. And when it has gone, I will turn the inner-eye to see its path. Where the fear has gone will be nothing. Only I will remain. -Paul Muad'Dib

I, Celia Faux, of hobbit body and musical mind, do hereby bequeath the following items to the following people: To Noah Larson, John Walkington, and Kavi Naidu, the South Attic. Use it well. Noah also gets rid of the one person who still uses his nickname in public (gobble gobble). Betsy, Bella, and all the other subbie singers get chorus and the bluebird of happiness. Ask Murphy about that. Angie gets a hug and all my love. The chorus gets more men, as does Uni theater. To Kat and all the theater people, new clean makeup and someone else to do it. You're gonna miss Adina. Singer gets a Q-bomb. Dintie gets a band and and orchestra because no one should ever make him choose. Roma, you're beautiful. K-Dawg, so are you. Keep in touch, and keep sending me all those anime references that I'll never understand. Stella gets a musical group who are really into it, fewer anti-snob-snobs, and all the incredible teachers I've had here. Wish you were coming with me. To everyone else, a hug and an accordionist's salute.

Celia Faux

Moves to California and becomes the accordionist of a commune.

Mary Feser

That would be a great idea. And by great, I mean terrible. -Ray
Many of us writers are temperamentally at odds with the world. It's not work one can do with a crowd. -Stephanie Mills
We'll sit on the sand on the other side of the Ganga and go to sleep for a year or two. -Vikram Seth
Time spent laughing is time spent with the gods. -Japanese proverb
The more I like me, the less I want to pretend to be other people. -Jamie Lee Curtis
"They are very young. And on their earth, as they call it, they never communicate with other planets. they revolve about all alone in space."
"Oh," the thin beast said. "Aren't they lonely?" -Madeleine L'Engle, A Wrinkle in Time

I, Mary Feser, of restless mind and yogic body, leave the following things to the following people. Miriam gets a final year of P.E. classes and silly jokes, and also a fork. Jonah gets all the Model U.N. conferences he could hope for, a permanent seat in the back of the turtle van, and hopefully someone new to torment with "Phaser"-esque nicknames or other bad puns. Remember though, I know where you live. Anna gets Actias luna and Chrysochroa fulgens and any other beautiful or interesting bugs she could wish for, plus the wit and motivation to write sweet stories about their lives. Matthew gets Unique, since he is virtually the only other person who ever says anything, so have fun and thanks for livening up the club. To the Uni P.E. department, you get all the credit for making me into a runner. I can't thank you enough. To all my Uni teachers, thanks making me ready for all the challenges I am sure to encounter out there in the real world.

Your heart, your soul, and what you feel...This, my friend, is what truly lasts. -Devalier
If it's time to go, remember what you're leaving. Remember the best. -Eleven
What?! I'm not small! It's the world that's too big! -Ed

I, Immanuel Han, leave the following. To Kari, lots of love, hugs, and tea, as well as actually well-written things and late night conversations, and lockers farther away from the door so it doesn't get so cold. To Abraham, much love from your sister—too many sissy wuves you posters, kicks and noogies in the hallways, success through your Uni High career, and unending pride to have you as my brother. To Lizzie and all of my club members, an anime we'll finally watch through completely and the time to actually get through it, as well as a good use for spending the food sale money. To Lina, lovely hallway conversations and laughs. To Selena and Anna and Natalie, stolen rides to and from Bug Bio trips. To Solomia, lockerfuls of pictures of France and admiration for all the languages you speak. To Ayah and Ayette, greetings in the hallway and soda money! To all the underclassmen, a wonderful experience and memories of your time at Uni High. Finally: many, many thanks to all of my teachers and especially M. Garvey and Madame for four years I loved and a language, culture, and identity I am growing to love. Thank you; I will miss you all dearly.

I'm pretty sure you have, like, the softest butt in the world. -Bruce to Donna
What time is one o'clock? -Esther
That was really bad. That was like a layer cake of badness. -Sally

I, Allie Hartman, do hereby leave the following. To Aarthi, I leave another trip to Italy and all the embarrassing memories from our fifth grade Twilight phase. To everyone else on the Italy Trip, I leave those really sketchy squishy pig toys that all the street vendors sold. To Anna, I leave a tennis racket. Oh, and that terrifyingly huge spider that has been crawling around my house. To Art Club, I leave a club leader that's hopefully less lazy than me or Sally. To Ezra, I leave another year's worth of wild car rides at the hands of Esther's questionable driving skills. To anyone in Latin, I leave you all good luck at future IJCL conventions. We have a reputation to uphold. To whoever ends up with my locker next year, I leave apologies for the broken shelf. To all my teachers, I leave heaps of thanks. Specifically, thanks to Ms. Tyson for putting up with me for two straight years of math class, and to Ms. Evans for helping me grow so much as an artist. Finally, thanks to everyone at Uni for all the good times, and in the words of the great Michael Scott: "Catch you on the flippity flip."

I, Grace Lilly, of perfect everything and little modesty, bequeath the following things to the following people: Callie-- my replacement at Uni, a few hot mixed boys, a D1 scholarship for volleyball, and most importantly Mederma scar gel for your hand. Maddie B. gets accidentally recorded gossip sessions, a shared interest in many boys, beauty/height/style, and an extremely fun senior year. Natalie receives 10 floor burns from volleyball dives, 6 bagels, a beautiful voice, and a tampon. Panos gets soccer MVP, some extra height, a head, and a fight. Funny art homework and a candy cane (...) go to my man Varun. Sarah Lee gets amazing bug knowledge and the best preppy style out there. Claire D. gets young men. Alfonzo, I leave you a much friendlier "hola" in the hallway than you're used to, and a backseat on the volleyball bus. Kavi gets an ego check. RJ receives the best hipster award. Butt slaps that leave a mark for a week and a #WCW go to Kathryn D. and Saahithi. Singer gets an orange jeep (but not mine). Innocent cussing, FHT, and a super cute boyfriend go to Grace P. Marshall and Justin get nice piercings and habitat club. Carissa gets 100+ soccer games to be proud of, and Zina gets beautiful red hair. Camden gets a hot girlfriend. Super delayed Instagram likes and my secret admiration go to Athena. Rahi and Omeed get to be the coolest twins at Uni, all the Graces left get to be one step closer to #1 Grace, and the volleyball girls finally get spandex. Lastly, I give all my teachers students who don't talk in class as much as I do.... And a HUGE thanks for the last five years! Peace out y'all.

I, Ashley McFarquhar, being of sound mind and body, leave the following: To the swim team, I leave a first aid kit, in case you guys ever have to play Marco Polo against Lauren again. To Lauren, you know I love you girl, I leave the weirdest hats I can find and permission to push me into the pool whenever you want. To Monica, I leave the whole locker room bench and glow-in-the-dark pillowpets that don't work. To Angela, I leave my spot on the swim team and an extensive knowledge of Chinese swear words to make your Agora language class even better for next year. Last but not least, thank you WS, MM, DB, DS, CB, GB, JC for all your help, over the years and a special thanks to Merf for putting up with me and my perpetual sports injuries.

I, Joshua Meling, of musical mind and athletic body bequeath the following: to Will I leave a luxurious back seat where you will have all the legroom in the world. To Chris I leave someone to bestow a nickname upon. Panos gets car rides free of Asians on bikes and an endless supply of banana peels. To Luie I leave a razor. To Mariam I leave some more enthusiasm for Floppy Fish. To Annemarie and Mikella I leave a whole lot of laughter and Latin group study sessions. To Monica, Stella, Matt Reeder and Nicholas I leave Music Club, ensemble playing, a road trip to Chicago, and an infinite number of recitals. To Beth and everyone else in Life Club I leave Salad Bowl, Bible group study, cupcake parties, and the most amazing camping trip -- Timmy you have been an awesome discussion partner and Ha Il don't give up on our mango tree, it will happen someday. James, Martin, Alexandre, Ezra and Isaac, keep an eye on Daniel. And to Daniel I leave all things memorable, including the Bach Double Concerto, Friday nights at CRCE, the snow fence, Krannert, and road trips. Finally, many thanks to my family and teachers for all the support and love that have made these past years meaningful.

I, Claire Michael, being of chlorine-obsessed mind and abnormally tall body do bequeath the following: to Grace Peacock beaucoup de les dialogues avec le fromage. To Maddie Nelson fun in the snow, a new training buddy and a lap counter with very long arms. Claire D. gets Lane 1 at Centennial and a secret buddy that stays a secret. Ema R. gets a state championship in the 100 breast and the memorial bathroom at ISU. To Sarah Lee I leave an injury-free season and a new kicking buddy. To all my swimming girls I leave Sheila the whale; take good care of her, she's lost some weight since State, and many more Sectional championships. To Ben Schiffer I leave a large Uni Boys Swim Team. To Matt Reeder I leave someone to sit next to in mixed orchestra days. To Katie Tender I leave sheep crabs and a new Scutt (or was I Judd?). To Mariam I leave Under Armour. To all the Track girls I leave an Ariel baton to match the Ursula one. To my sister Maddie I leave all the clothes in my closet I don't take to college and my "Michael" Uni cap. Remember that I'm proud of you no matter what yours says. Last but not least to Annemarie I leave car trips to Ivesville, fluffaloes, pep talks for everything, 4x800 handoffs, and someone to make faces at you in choir. A huge thanks to Lisa, Mr. Bild, Madame Lopez, Doug, Coach Young, and my other teachers as well as my amazing family for all the help they've given me on this journey. To Maddie and Sarah: endless hard track workouts and the first words on this page. Mariam, you can lead the sprint team along with Michael, who also gets a pineapple. Chris you can lead if Michael doesn't. To Neil: the joy of not having Calc next year. Siena: infinite amounts of sour lemons to satisfy you in class. Reed, you can have Vinay's seat on Scholastic Bowl. Ben: I guess you can be team captain. To Lydia: the most ridiculous Sim that you could ever make. Grace: yearbook stuff almost on time. To Noah: Journalism class all to yourself. Alyson: a better Catan partner. Jazmin, I give you reluctant best friend status. To Maia: ACT practice books for next year, hot peach tea, and endless bickering whenever you want. Marie and Justin, my bffls, endless hugs and the promise that we'll probably see each other at another Asian party. To Mr. Bergandine, a huge thank you for all the time you've spent outside of class answering my questions and fostering my love of chemistry. Mr. Sutton, I promise I'll stop trying to trick you by tapping on the opposite shoulders. In exchange, I'd like to borrow your Senior Pass. Finally, a thank you to all my teachers and Uni for helping me foster in the best environment possible.

I, Patrick Stein, being of mind and body and the whole deal, do hereby bequeath the following to the following: Siena gets the neighborhood. Ethan C. gets a copy of Sister. Ethan S. gets a Swiffer Sweeper-Duster. Kavi and John get nothing but a vacuum to fill. Jonah gets a warm glass of milk and many a hallway antic to entertain him. Nicholas gets lifelong musical accompaniment. Jackson gets a future where J Mascis is on Mount Rushmore. Even D. gets a cave tether with which to find happiness. Jacob gets a nice red sleeping bag. Jack gets a metal sword to fight crime. Angie gets a simpler bed for future stage managing. Madie gets to keep that kickass cape. Berit gets an ad-lib-less world. Kat learns the spell of flight! (To go with Augmn.) Emma, Lily, and Clara get a big thumbs up, and a better actor for their next project. Anupam gets my share of the game of Nightcrawlers, because I think he would enjoy it. His friends: a crevasse. William gets a simple farewell kiss. Kate gets Boneyard Creek — take your friends. To Bella I grant the multitudinous treasures of the Solis basement, and to her friends a hole to pee in. My sister Nathalie gets Size 11 shoes to fill. To all the teachers who've made my time here so special (no playing favorites), I humbly submit four more years of the Stein legacy. And golden years they will surely be. To all the unmentioned squirming masses, may you stand always in the light of the scattered sun. Worm Out.

I, Alice Trellakis, of feisty mind and miniature body leave the following things to the following people: Kyra gets gossip, paranormal pranks, cinnamon hot chocolate, and an endless stash of spoons. Athena gets a romantic serenade from IceJJFish, kick-ass XC seasons, and a fab senior year. Sarah Lee gets best the prep fashion, my termite collection, and blankets to stay warm in the tundra known as Uni. Justin gets plenty of rides and that walkingstick. MJ gets more puns and lessons from Buck to teach. Panos gets face space, parties, and the Greek legacy. Marie and Beth get to stay adorable. Matthew R. gets a commanding flute presence. Anna gets the trophy for being the nicest person around. Lina gets stress free weights workouts. JYP gets crack challenges. To Mr. Sutton, Mr. Stone, Mr. Rayburn, Lisa, Doug, and other teachers I've had, I leave my gratitude for helping me to grow so much. To the rest of Uni: a huge thanks for the best five years anyone could have asked for. I know you'll do great things and I'll miss you all. Lots of love!

Most importantly, I have to pass on the Chapa legacy. That goes to Louis, henceforth known as Louis "Chapa" Kim. Marshall gets Habitat Club, as well as poorly made gardening tools and fifty dollars. Panos gets to be the new best soccer player at Uni and surly female canines. For Chris I leave RAP, as well as all my love, and interesting conversations on soccer buses. Martin gets an injury free soccer season for once. Will gets not being on the same soccer team as Saak-dog. I bequeath upon Pebbles the title of most awesome person at Uni, but you have to fight everyone else for it (sorry). To Kat I leave skill at and an appreciation for Math, as well as a tutor who knows what they are doing. Jonah gets whatever he wants. Henry Wilson gets the name Jack, as well as being totally rad. All of my teachers get my love, appreciation, and blessings. Omeed and Rahi get everything else. Use it wisely. Also, in case Jackson flunks, he gets lots of hot guacamole.

Somewhere the black man from the grill is laughing his heart out. -Chloe Yang
He was not prepared for this when he published that post. No one is prepared for David Dlott. -Adina Johnson
Giraffes are basically the same thing as tigers -Adina Johnson
I shared it with spunkydick17. -Alice Hu
I told you that his d was limp. -Donna Xia
I don't know what that means. -Chloe Yang
What does HP stand for? Harry Potter? -Sally Pennachi, attempting to play a video game.
If not now, when? If not you, who? -Hillel the Elder

I, Donna Xia, possessing a gullible mind with no sense of direction, leave these snazzy stuff to somewhat snazzy people. First off, to John, I leave you Mystery Man, some really nice lotion for all of your moisturizing needs, and a life outside of gaming and your basement. To Kat, the love of my life, I leave you ketchup covered fries, lots of hugs, and a portrait of you. Come get it. To Jay, my bruh, I leave you that candlelight dinner date with weightlifting. Also, Jay, I leave you a lot of warm wishes for the future! To Ethan, have fun with my pink 3DS. To the people who stuck it out with me in StudProd, I leave you fresh tictacs in a bottle that says "Donna is numero uno". To Angela, I leave all of the asian jokes in the world and a bucket of lychee jelly. To Lilly, I leave recognition in the newspaper for your soccer achievements, the Injury Squad, and classy beanies. To JYP, I leave you my laptop. I'll know if you change the cover, so you better not. To Monica, I leave a ton of origami paper and a slightly bent kusudama ball. To Ben, Pepe, or Bebe, I leave you quirky eyebrow tricks and other party tricks that I can never do. To Jonah, I have some good news and some bad news. The good news is that I leave you my video games. The bad news is that their value is questionable at best. To Lisa, I leave a huge hug of gratitude for supporting me no matter what. To Brooke, I leave an equally huge hug for getting me through one of the (many) hard periods of my life. To Mr. Radnitzer, thank you for never giving up on me. To the rest of the SSO and all of the faculty who have lent me their guidance, thank you. Cheers, Donna.

Donna Xia

Plays Ace Attorney and decides to take the bar exam, surprising everyone when she passes with flying colors.

The five stages of grief: 1. denial, 2. anger, 3. bargaining, 4. depression, 5. facial hair growth -Alice Hu
STOP. It's not history, it's HERstory -Sally
Mr. Russell: [Obscure quote nobody recognizes]. I'll back up a bit...to be or not to be? Where's that from?
Tommy: League of Legends!
Sometimes when it gets cold at night I like to glue pillow stuffing to the bottom of my feet and pretend that I'm walking on clouds. -Donna
"'...Only as you gasp your dying breath shall you understand, your life amounted to no more than one drop in a limitless ocean.' Yet what is any ocean but a multitude of drops?" -From Cloud Atlas

I, Chloe Yang, being of meandering mind and hyperactive body, do bequeath the following things to the following people. Kate gets foxes in boxes, plenty of fartleks, sprints around the block, the tallest of hills, dance parties to gymnast music, and an endless supply of chocolate. Mariam gets awkward door encounters, "oh, pickles" and vegetable puns, tons of counting chips, attractive ugly faces, and pig calls (from you know who). Aarthi gets orange juice, a living Arthur, and a new carpooling buddy. Anna gets a trophy for nicest human and SciOly partner; Iulianna gets all my eggs (I'll log in someday); Natalie gets philosophical debates and the sound of a fallen blob that can't get back up; Ellen gets daily postcards and infinite replays of "Sur Ma Route"; Makayla gets our family photo; Tyra gets sass. I leave all of you memories of France. Nicholas gets another Anat/Phys buddy, Unique, and an overflowing inbox of submissions. Matt gets all the French and music awards possible. Future MUN leaders get patience and luck with all their debates. Finally, I leave my teachers, friends, and Uni my gratitude. Thank you all for making the past three years incredible!

Works as a tramp-stamp artist and becomes widely requested throughout Hollywood.

SUBBIE

We're the last class to have Cutting Edge. Kai shaves his head. The Subbie Retreat was held at Crystal Lake Park. The Packers win the Super Bowl. Jackson becomes VP because of Vote for Pedro, and Mitchell 4 SPAC posters also come into fashion. Mo leaves us after 2 months. We watch October Sky and the Royal Wedding. Daniel Nibeck programs Missile Run and sells it for 50 cents a copy. Señora rants about her love for tepuis. People get jump-scared in the mummy exhibit at the Field Museum. Oral History Project was on Counterculture. Uni Period trials begin. CR, Cole, and Eric all chase Joy. Coleman, Kai, and CR perform as Elephant in the Room at Spring Fling. Carmen falls asleep in English and Mr. Rayburn locks her in after class ends. Shaleen memorizes the handbook and shoves it down everyone's throat, wins a TV award. Bruce asks Addie out 20 times in the span of five minutes. Josh injures himself. We lose Daniel, Brandon, and Martin at the end of the year. Ito Sensei and Ms. Ridenour leave, as does Morris, after showing us her engagement ring.

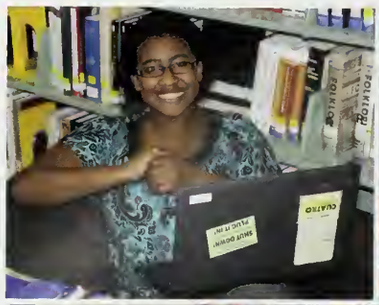
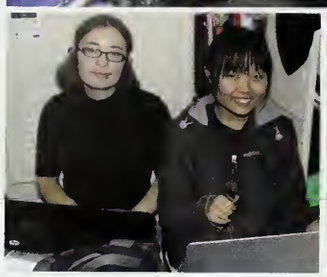
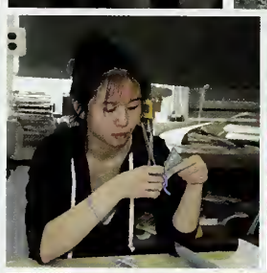
FRESHMAN

We get Donna, Eva, Nick, Haneen, Claire, Quyen, and Andrew. Uni Period officially becomes a part of the schedule. Merf takes over Agora sign-up, leading to a mad rush to Kenney Gym on registration day. Drake and Lupe Fiasco come to Assembly Hall. Ms. Boca yells at Maya for playing the trumpet during class. Shaleen and Grant film a Star Wars movie for Computer Lit and Grace, Isaak, and Ailin sing "Baby Beluga" (both available on Youtube). Cole gets a bob. The Subbies get us kicked out of Siebel. Everyone falls asleep during Health class. Bruce becomes a farmer and plants his Boy Scout "garden". Kai trips over a chair in Geometry class in a game of Truth or Dare. Mr. Vaughn gives out Fiji water and cookies in History class. Vikram's collarbone gets broken in a game of football. Isaak gets a 29% on a Geometry test. Ms. Iehl-Morse gives us many extra credit opportunities. The Cattle Bank opens. We make Ms. Suslick cry. Josh injures himself. Noah I. leaves us. Señora Finch transfers to Urbana at the end of the year, Mrs. Ridenour leaves, and Kovacs retires.

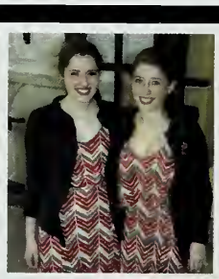






President: Andrew Nguyen; Vice President: Grant DeAtley; Secretary-Treasurer: Quyen Nguyen; SFAC: Michelle Lu

History Cutie



SOPHOMORE

Chloe transfers into the class. Mary returns from England. Robert leaves us for England. We get Juan, after his BFF the Senora doesn't work out. Warren Grice advocates #TeamUni and calls out girl's volleyball for dressing thug: "It's a culture not a costume." Everyone naps in Butler's class. Darren gesticulates wildly and knocks over a pan of the girls swim team's pasta. Tim steals Isaak's date at winter formal-- Isaak is salty 3 years later. Subbies get laptops which makes us rather jealous. Shaleen is incapacitated and wheelchair bound, shouts "Heil Hitler" in Model UN conference. Andrew pulls an April Fool's prank and drips red food coloring on the floor-- Isaak thinks it's period blood. Nick eats a habanero and pukes it up. Grace eats a habanero and goes home sick. Addie leaves us halfway through the year. Senator Dick Durbin visits us. IMSA Student Council also drops by. Josh injures himself. Sally Walker was going to retire, but we persuade her to stay with us one more year.

JUNIOR

We welcome Sofia into the class. David Dlott sprouts a mustache. Eva leaves halfway through junior year. Mr. Sutton tries to break his apple throwing addiction, hits a highlighter with his stick and nearly kills Jackie. Shaleen wins "Biggest Diva" in Model UN and Mr. Leff has to explain to him what that means. Ellen Degeneres sorta visits campus. Quintin rejects Mary Evans' offer to be his friend if he gives her a butterfly in Bug Bio. Scholastic Bowl places 4th at State and goes on to Nationals. Juan has us fix the picnic benches, calls out Casio when something Asian pops up, and coaches Nacho and Jesus in soccer. The lounge gets a huge renovation. Ray tells us about the time he thought his wife was cheating on him, but she was actually getting him a crazy physics present. Quintin and Shaleen win Prom Prince and Princess, but Shaleen doesn't get his tiara (much to his dismay). Josh injures himself. Sally Walker leaves us.

SENIOR

Everyone gets Senioritis the first month into the school year. Half the class ditches the spirit week assembly, Ailin shames them on Facebook. We get Mr. Bicknell, and Girl's Volleyball is upset he doesn't let them wear spandex. Jackson gets wrecked by Mr. Bergandine every day in Chemistry B. Kai and Vikram's steamy romance is finally displayed for all to see at StudProd. Isaak starts wearing green and yellow everyday. Jackie dyes her hair blue and sasses everyone in Yearbook. Raebekkah penguin slides to class. Princess steals Alice Chang's gloves. Tommy and Eric have a falling out; it is one of the worst break-ups the class has ever seen. The 3-D printer comes to Uni and certain people disappear into the chemistry room. We are on lockdown during Unofficial, saved from the terrors of drunken public urinators. Mr. Bild takes a sabbatical and we get Mr. Chartoff. Amy is the best. Rumor has it Josh will attend Vice Versa after years of skipping school dances. Scholastic Bowl places 4th in Masonics and wins the State Title. Certain boys in the class don't take graduation seriously; Mr. Butler vows to veto Trianwhale. Thank goodness no one votes for it.

The Yearbook is usually dedicated to one or two specific faculty members who were crucial to the growth and development of that year's student body. This year, the Yearbook staff felt that because so many individual faculty members contributed in their own unique ways, it was only fair that we dedicate the book to the faculty as a whole.

Thank you!!
